Personal presentation
	Further information: I am a final year student for a Master in International Management and Enterprises at the University of Rome 'La Sapienza'. After being awarded a scholarship in 2008-2009, I spent six months in Australia at Flinders University of Adelaide to carry out a research project on the mineral industry of South Australia. The topic of this research work is now the main subject of the current thesis for my Master degree that I will present in July 2010. I also have a very strong interest in international economic issues and, considering myself of an open minded attitude and with the willingness to learn new aspects in my profession, I attended the study course in International Marketing and Management for International Enterprises and participated to the Moving Overseas Student Program at the La Sapienza University in Rome. The courses emphasised various aspects such as: -Different cultures, - Analysis of problem solving avenues; - Personal work dedication and carrying out of duties; -Understanding State institutions and their rules and regulations. This wealth of knowledge has become part of my cultural background, particularly in the field of problem solving, which is a common trait in day-to-day work and life situations. I believe that the most important and efficient way is to adapt to the current working context where I am engaged. About my personal goals I aim to achieve: -international experience -business skills -enhance knowledge related to international issues -problem solving ability, in order to become a skilled international manager
